The Tutor, James Tatum, is a professional tutor with many years experience teaching in the U.K., France and Holland.

The location will be Le Marche, Italy, the birthplace of Raphael and Leopardi, whose landscapes have inspired artists for centuries. It is one of Italy's most picturesque regions and is abound with stunning, natural beauty - endless coastline, rolling hills dotted with vineyards, olive trees, historic villages and breathtaking mountain ranges. You will find few better places to enjoy and improve your art.

You will stay in a luxury en-suite bedroom in a beautifully restored 9-bedroomed palazzo which sits at the foot of the ancient hilltop town of Montelparo and rests elegantly between the Sibillini Mountains and the Adriatic coast. It's a picture postcard, medieval setting, with winding streets, well-worn stone steps and shaded courtyards, interwoven between historic piazzas and panoramic viewpoints.

What's included in the cost of the holiday? 7 nights luxury en-suite accommodation on a dinner, bed and breakfast basis, house wine with meals, 5 days painting tuition, 5 lunches in a restaurant or picnic-style near to your painting location, all transportation (including transfers from local pick-up points) and basic painting materials.

Prices start at €1,799 (depending on room type) per person based on two people sharing with a generous €250 discount for a non-painting partner. Single occupancy is an additional €300 for the week.
